

Coordinator for Well-Being

Well-Being Coaching

- Provide well-being coaching & referrals for students experiencing challenges impeding their success
- Serve as a consult on well-being, provide ongoing individual student support, & share insight for future programmatic efforts

Program Development

- Collaborate with staff to design well-being programs, aligned with HealthyEU initiatives
- Build partnerships with campus & community organizations, assess program effectiveness, & continuously improve well-being support

Center for Access & Success

The Center for Access & Success is intended to help students from all backgrounds to have access to & succeed in higher education, serving our Elon University community & our surrounding communities from pre-K to adults through various initiatives. The Center for Access & Success is seeking a Coordinator for Well-Being who is both experienced & passionate about supporting diverse student populations & their families, particularly those from diverse backgrounds. This role would require a deep understanding factors influencing well-being & student success, including student resilience, inequitable systems, and financial stressors to collaborate & develop programs that address the holistic needs of students & their families.

Elon Academy

The Elon Academy is an intensive, multi-phase, non-profit college access & success program for academically promising high school students in Alamance County with a financial need &/or no family history of college. Elon Academy provides a comprehensive support system for students including three consecutive summer residential programs providing both the academic & university life experience. Additionally, Scholars engage in monthly Saturday academies, a Transitions to College program, & are provided support by mentors & academic coaches. Once in college, ongoing holistic support is provided by Peer Leaders & in collaboration with their universities to ensure success throughout their college journey.

Applicant review will begin April 1st.
Contact Emily Wiersma, Director of the Elon Academy, at ewiersma@elon.edu for more information.